Today's agenda

- Questions to round table:
 - what is the role science and the university could play for ending the war and for achieving a lasting peace between Israel and Palestine ?
 - is it important to keep communication going on in the science sector (keeping in mind, the Science4Peace was and is strictly against sanctions in science)?
 - how you you think future scientific communication between different countries should develop - free of any political interference and for peaceful purposes only ? and what perspectives do you see coming from these protests for the academic world across the globe?
